Skill Development for Youths in India: Challenges and Opportunities

Dr. (Smt.) M.P. Anuradha

Prof. Smt. S.S. Sangolli

The economic success of a country is determined by the education system. Education is nation's strength. A developed nation is inevitably an educated nation. Since independence, India as developing nation is consistently progressing in the education field. Although there have been a lot of challenges to higher education system, equally there exist innumerable opportunities to overcome them and to improve it. Our education system is more theoretical oriented rather than practical and market oriented. Hence our student proficiencies are inadequate to meet today's market demand. Skill development programmes should be incorporated in the curriculum in colleges and universities to equip them with better skills.

The higher education system plays a vital role in the globalized economy. Due to the rapid technological changes, jobs are increasingly skill based. 20 % of our present population consists of youths. Our youths need skill-based training programmes in relation to the changing needs. Hence it is essential to imbibe necessary skills and expertise amongst students to increase their employability.

The challenges for our today's education system and the available opportunities to overcome them are as follows:

1. Low gross Enrolment Ratio.

Only 15% of the school students enroll for higher education which is a great barrier for nation's progress.

To attract higher % of school passed students by highlighting its merits wherever possible and to instill merit scholarships, study loan facilities, creating adequate job opportunities and establishing career guidance cells.

2. Inadequate educational institutions:

Present infrastructure is adequate to educate about 10% of youth population and many institutions lack E- Learning resources.
